Development Drive Now Underway With Three New Buildings Planned

By MIKE GALVIN

Plans for the construction of three new buildings, a library, science building and gymnasium-armory during the next five years were announced jointly today by the Very Rev. A. A. Lemieux, S.J., and Thomas J. Bannan, regents' chairman.

Estimated cost of the three structures will be $3,725,000. Formation of four new development committees and expansion of existing fund programs was also announced recently. The new groups will include friends, parents, students, and also wills and bequests committees. The present associate and alumni programs will be expanded.

Leo Costello, chairman of the student development committee, will coordinate fund-raising activity among the students and will try to top the alumni campaign in a friendly competition. Costello has also announced the development drive leaders: men's chairman,

ATTENTION

All co-eds at the "Cube," women's residence hall, are the first to jump on the bandwagon and have pledged 100 per cent support to the Student Development Drive, announces the "Cube's" Chairman Paldina Campanile.

Don Willis; women's chairman; Patricia Pavelka; her assistants, Fran Farrell and Sandy West; senior men's chairman, Leo Shahon; senior women's chairman, unannounced; junior men's chairman, Bob Coombs; junior women's chairman, Mary Elliott; sophomore men's chairman, Sam Brown; sophomore women's chairman, Diane Dunne; freshman men's chairman, Greg Barlow; freshman women's chairman, Rosemary Jellison; and Irene Tobener, campaign secretary.

Now the largest Catholic university in the West, with more than 3,200 students, Seattle University has erected five new buildings in the past five years to keep pace with the area's growing educational demands.

Theme of the new development program will be "Seattle University, a Growing Force in an Expanding Age."

Student committees will approach every group on campus to explain the campaign which will officially take place during the first part of December.

Judicial Board Members Named

New Judicial Board members were appointed by Student Body President Brian Cullerton after interested students had taken a test on the Constitution administered last week. Approved by the Assembly Board for membership are Mark Ruljancich, a senior who will serve as chief justice. Richard Abrams and William Cammarano are the other senior members of the board.

Junior positions were taken by Ben Simon, Jane Merryman and Connie Roth.

Sophomore appointees were Charlotte Belmont, Fran Farrell and Sandra West.

These new members will serve until graduation unless one of them voluntarily resigns.

On the work agenda the new members plan to prepare laws governing the students. At the present there are no such written laws. Mark Ruljancich, Sandy West and Jane Merryman will form a com-

Six Pledges Announced By Silver Scroll President

Six pledges for Silver Scroll, upper class women's honorary, were announced this week by President Helen Hoolahan. The pledges include Shirley Anderson, Rosemary Hebner, Sue Hohl, Celine Hulbert, Lynn O'Neil and Joan Parker.

These pledges will serve as committee chairmen for the annual Sadie Hawkins Tolo to be held Friday, Nov. 15. Lynn O'Neil was named chairman, with Celine Hulbert in charge of programs, Joan Parker and Shirley Anderson taking care of decorations and Rosemary Hebner and Sue Hohl in charge of publicity.

SENIORS

Those seniors who have not had their pictures taken for the Aegis may have them taken on Tuesday, Nov. 12; Wednesday, Nov. 13; or Thursday, Nov. 14.

These are the last days that the photographer will be taking Senior pictures. He is in the third floor lounge of the LA Building from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

mittee and hope to work with a committee from the Assembly Board on this task.

The purpose of the Judicial Board is to pass on the constitutionality of laws by the Assembly Board and to try cases that may come up.

The new pledges were introduced to members at a meeting Sunday night at the home of Patricia Dennehy. They will be honored at an installation banquet sometime in November.

Shirley Anderson, junior, is a music education major from Anacosta, Mont. Rosemary Hebner, a junior from Renton, is an industrial management major in the School of Commerce and Finance. Sue Hohl, also a commerce and finance major, is a junior from Seattle.

Celine Hulbert, a junior biology major from Lewiston, Idaho, is present AWSSU secretary. Lynn O'Neil, senior education major from Seattle, is past secretary of the AWSSU and is presently a member of the Assembly Board.

Joan Parker, junior, is a home economics - education major from Aberdeen, Wash. Joan was a Sea-fair princess this year, representing the Capitol Hill district.

Silver Scroll is open to junior and senior women students. Pledges are accepted twice yearly on the basis of activity points and a minimum grade point of 3.0. Present officers in addition to the president include Barbara LaVeille, vice president; Marguerite Hoffman, secretary; and Adoreen McCormick, treasurer. Present members include Joan Bailey Jobbagyi, Joey Beswick, Patricia Dennehy and Geri Kumhera.

21 Candidates Vie For Posts As Freshmen Elect Officers

In the wake of posters, programs and campaign propaganda, freshmen go to the polls today to select a slate of class officers.

Election booths will be set up from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the Chieftain and from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Marycrest.

The names of 21 candidates will appear on the official ballot. Running for president are: John Miller, Richard De Vitis, George Navone and Jack Monrean.

Eight candidates are vying for vice president: Marilyn Berglund, Liz Mulvihill, Frank Re Nagle, Nancy League, Jigger LaBuda, James Stark, Tom Kelleher and Helen Thompson.

Candidates for secretary are: Rosemary Jellison, Mary McNulty, Diane Chaney and Marilyn Bauer.

Loretta Decuir, Agnes Kelly, Gary Skinner, Ricky Esser and Patricia Schott are campaigning for treasurer.

Highlight of pre-election preparations was a well-attended election rally held last night at Marycrest. Candidates gave campaign speeches and presented special programs and entertainment.

Don Willis, elections board co-chairman, explained why a single general election is being held instead of the primaries originally scheduled for today.

"Because early interest in the Frosh elections lagged," he said, "and because very few candidates submitted petitions, we extended the deadline for applications and, to meet the time limit, canceled the primary elections."

"We're glad to see that several other freshmen have taken advantage of the extension and submitted petitions to the board. In spite of the early lack of interest, the frosh candidates have shown a lot of interest and initiative in their campaigns and they all seem to be highly capable leaders."

The list of winning candidates will be posted in the dorms as soon as results are tabulated, probably late Thursday evening.

Court Nominees Total 58; Eliminations Start Tomorrow

Fifty-eight co-eds will begin the long elimination procedure for the 1958 Homecoming Court Friday as SU's men go to the polls to select the 20 semi-finalists.

Five girls from each class will be selected in the Chieftain and LA Building voting booths from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow. Activity cards must be presented.

Girls to be elected by the frosh men will be Riki Esser, Dawn Ramey, Brenda Weller, Judy McGovern, Natalie Garay, Roberta Kitts, Lorene Yakesh, Toni De Paiva, Carlita George, Gloria Barone and Rosemary Jellison.

Heading the list of sophomores will be 1957 freshman princesses Anne Gribbon and Margery Barr, along with Corinne Kubis, Joan Petri, Betty Kaizer, Donna Martin, Donna Peccia, Vicki Meyers, Sheila Morney, Carol Casey, Pat Pavelka, Gail Parson, Miriam Michael, Camille Coccione, Joanne Arata, Fran Abrams, Dorothy Cochran, Kathy Moloney, Charlotte Belmont, Mary Ann Copp and Martha Scott.

In the Junior Class nominations the candidates are led by Bernice Baumgartner, one of last year's sophomore princesses. Others are Joan Parker, Jackie Saletic, Maxine Reynolds, Pat Vickerman, Sandra Dodson, Mickey Elliott, Sue Cohn, Lee Rose Vitalich, Jane Merryman and Sue Mooring.

Senior men will be selecting their five semi-finalists from Joey Beswick, Helen Hoolahan, Theresa Ebert, Lynn O'Neil, Larue Steele, Mary Claire O'Brien, Rosemary Maher, Kay Van Stralen, Barbara Cole, Patti Roach, Donna Tatley, Sydel Kulczycki, Margaret Di Julio, Donna Coon and Kay McDonald.

AWS "Pumpkin Pow-Wow" Boasts Gene Aitken's Music

If you are left holding the pumpkin tomorrow night, don't feel bad, consider yourself lucky. At the Pumpkin Pow-Wow, annual AWS-sponsored mixer scheduled Friday, Nov. 8, two boys will be given paper pumpkins which will fit on the wrist. These pumpkins must be passed to each partner as the dancers mix. Prizes will be awarded at intermission to those holding the pumpkin. In addition to this a broom dance is planned.

Gene Aitken will provide music between the hours of 9 p.m. to 12 midnight. This mixer will be held in the Chieftain Lounge. Refreshments will be served. Tickets are priced at 75 cents.

Planning this mixer are co-chairmen Charlotte Belmont and Jane Merryman. Handling publicity are Corinne Kubis and Margie Haley. Peggy Prendergast is in charge of ticket sale and Janet Bonawits will take care of clean-up.

JANE MERRYMAN, CO-CHAIRMAN; Pat Dennehy, AWSSU president; and Charlotte Belmont, co-chairman (l-r), invite you to the annual "Pumpkin Pow-Wow."

Music Review:

"East of Eden"

• RON GALLUCCI

Talking about powerful combinations, I would say that James Dean, John Steinbeck and Elia Kazan make up a potent lot. Such is the case in the movie, "East of Eden."

John Steinbeck, author of the book of the same name, and Elia Kazan, director of the motion picture, have very much in common when it comes to their portrayals of American life. In every work, each has attained an ultimate in reality. This is true to such an extent that both have often resorted to exaggerated extremes: "Grapes of Wrath" and "Baby Doll"—where the sordid is portrayed for the sake of the sordid.

But where does James Dean fit into the picture? Or, more appropriately, where did James Dean fit into the picture?

He had the genius to precreate the type of personality that Steinbeck and Kazan revel in depicting. Although Dean's career was short-lived, it was a memorable one.

Getting back to the motion picture itself, I gather from what I've heard that it is outstanding entertainment. The supporting cast includes Raymond Massey, Burl Ives, Julie Harris, who is highly acclaimed for her award-winning roles on Broadway, especially as Joan of Arc in "The Lark"; and Jo Van Fleet, best supporting actress of 1955 for "The Rose Tattoo."

Everything considered, I'd say "East of Eden" is worthwhile seeing. Fortunately, everyone will get another opportunity this Sunday, Nov. 10. Scabbard and Blade, ROTC honorary for junior and senior cadet officers, is presenting the film in conjunction with the ASSU Movie Board.

The picture will be shown in the William Pigott Auditorium. A complimentary combination of wide-screen and technicolor will be used. Admission will remain at 25¢.

Sound pretty good? I'd say we have a date at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

OPERA

Yesterday Seattle began the celebration of "Italian Week." I cannot think of a better way of celebrating this event than with the Italian national art—the opera.

The production, "Carmen," will be brought to Seattle by the New York Wagner Opera Company on Saturday, Nov. 9. Josephine Guido, lyric - coloratura soprano; Maria Russo, mezzo-soprano; and Michael Cavallaro, tenor, are just a few of the people in the company to appear at the Moore Theatre at 8:30 p.m.

And if you enjoy this opera and find you want more, you will no doubt gain enjoyment from "La Traviata."

This opera will be Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the Moore Theatre. Both productions will be conducted and directed by Frank Foti.

ART

In line with the Italian theme, the Seattle Art Museum will have on exhibit reproductions of paintings by the Italian masters, which have been borrowed from private collectors, museums and art galleries.

The titles of the two displays are "Illuminations," which includes a reproduction of Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel ceiling, and the "2,500 Years of Italian Art."

The first showing is Sunday, Nov. 10, at 1 p.m. These masterpieces will be on exhibit for the rest of this month, with the exception of Mondays.

CONCERT

The "Black Watch," musical production by the Regimental Band and the Highlander Dancers, does not fit into the "Italian Week" theme, but I am sure that it will provide an evening of full enjoyment. This is tonight at 8:30 p.m. at the Civic Auditorium.

CNCCS Confab:

ASSU reports

Unification was the keynote last week end as some 55 delegates convened at St. Martin's College in Olympia for the semi-annual Confederation of Northwest Catholic College Students Convention.

Not only was Seattle U represented at this convention by Noel Brown, who is the confederation president, but eight members of the student body also attended. Making the Olympia trip were Sonja Vukov, Patricia Dennehy, Brian Cullerton, Jane Merryman, Santos Contreras, David Poisson, Betty Kay-Marshall and Dick Kane. The Rev. Robert Rebhahn, S.J., dean of students at SU, accompanied the group as faculty advisor.

Among the general subjects discussed at the three-day meet were the promulgation of the CNCCS ideal, the establishment of a central clearing house, the combined efforts of the member schools in obtaining and promoting common projects and the approval of the next convention site.

In discussing the most satisfactory way of promoting the CNCCS purpose, it was generally agreed that the best method would be by emphasizing that purpose to everyone. "To aid the student governments in fulfilling their responsibilities to the student community by promoting and regulating extracurricular activities designed to aid the college administrations in the education of students."

Also in following the theme of unification at the convention, it was decided the quickest and most expeditious way to distribute matter pertinent to the members would be through a central clearing house. Its purpose would be to forward to all the colleges all information which would be useful to them.

Father Rebhahn offered the services of his office to help establish this new function of the CNCCS. In the future the conference will attempt to operate its own clearing house.

A resolution adopted by the delegates was that a united drive by the CNCCS be initiated to obtain lecturers, guest speakers and other cultural activities which would benefit the member schools. An invitation will be extended to Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, former U.S. ambassador to Italy.

A single vote gave Seattle U the margin necessary to host the spring convention. Gonzaga U also bid for the privilege. With the support of the students, it should be one of the finest conventions ever attended by the CNCCS.

Another reassuring smile

• AL KREBS

Originally this column was going to be a full-throated satirical farce. It was going to be about a chairman of the board of a large corporation who played golf all the time and kept issuing reassuring bulletins to the stockholders telling them that everything was fine.

In the meantime the corporation was falling apart around him. Somehow though, my heart would not be in such a column.

For to joke about the above at this deadly serious time in the world's history would be most unrealistic.

By now the entire world is aware that Soviet Russia has launched Sputnik II, which not only is up in the air almost twice as far as its predecessor but also weighs seven times as much as Sputnik I.

THIS IS SHOCKING WHEN IT IS HELD IN THE LIGHT OF THE U.S.'S MISNAMED VANGUARD PROJECT, FOR SPUTNIK II IS ALREADY SEVEN TIMES HIGHER AND 50 TIMES HEAVIER THAN OUR STILL - TO - BE - LAUNCHED EARTH SATELLITE.

Russia has won a clear-cut psychological, political and strategical victory.

It has been neatly coincided with the 40th Anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

For the United States it is becoming an agonizing trip down the back roads of scientific achievement while the Russians are now traveling down the super-highways.

America has no one to blame but itself, not only for its complacency in regard to science and intellectualism but in the fact that twice it let a smile be its guide.

Americans in the past have put great trust in a smile, for them it is a sure sign of brotherhood, unity, etc. For the past five years they have let a smile be their spokesman.

If the smile says everything is fine, then as far as the general public is concerned everything is fine.

Our apathy for these scientific developments is easily seen in the fact that we don't like to read about Sputniks, or we feel sorry for the poor dog whirling around in the dark outer space.

In America everything has to have a specific purpose. Our scientists have to find a cure for polio, they have to develop a new plastic fiber, they have to do this or that. We never just say here is some time and money—see what you can find that will benefit science in general.

In Russia, despite their form of government their best brains are relatively free. They are directly subsidized by the government for the purpose of exploring—period.

In this country, as has been proven in the past few years in both the political and domestic fields, brains are an impediment to success.

Today in Red Square the Russians are celebrating their 40th anniversary of "freedom" from the Czar. Certainly the hierarchy of the Communist Party is not going to miss the opportunity to astound the world with some new and spectacular achievement.

Perhaps this afternoon we will hear that the Russians have hit the moon with a hydrogen or atomic device contained in one of their new-powered rockets.

Regardless of what new scientific achievement develops on this day, it will be only another step that the USSR has taken looking back over their shoulders at the United States.

We must remember this: the Russians have launched an earth satellite, they have developed a new rocket fuel and therefore we must assume that they are capable of doing things in the scientific field which have heretofore been looked upon as impossible.

To catch up with the Russians is becoming a tougher task day by day and something dynamic from this country must be forthcoming.

Dynamic ideas and projects require dynamic leaders.

I do not want to assume the role of alarmist but I pray that the American people see the folly of continuing to allow themselves to be constantly reassured by the false, stagnant, hollow shell of a once-great general's smile.

For us this is a time for action and the time is now.

Today finds us skimming over the canals of Venice in our gondola taxicab, bringing us from the airport to our hotel near St. Mark's Square. There is a festive atmosphere in the air to greet us in the form of yellow-hatted gondoliers noisily scanning the canals for customers, namely tourists!

Since our hotel is centrally located we waste no time finding such famous landmarks as St. Mark's Square, Doges Palace, Bridge of Sighs and the Grand Canal. We have no trouble making ourselves understood since about 80 per cent of the population consists of tourists, Americans no less!

The Venetians have no traffic congestion problems with cars for there are none within the city—after Rome, what a relief! All cars are parked in a huge garage just out of town. To get about, one merely hops in a gondola or walks.

Some of us found time to visit the glass factories for which Venice is noted. Here we watched the glass blowers at work, shaping objects of art from figurines to life-sized vases. Others pursued the sand, surf and sun of the Lido, famed beach resort only twenty minutes from our hotel by boat.

The nocturnal concerts held in St. Mark's Square were matched only in volume by our own singing troupe, consisting of Signores Bruck, Turner, Hykes, Borgert and Lorenz. While the popular tune of Venice was "Arrividerchi Roma," our anthem was M-I-C-K-E-Y M-O-U-S-E!

One of our pleasurable evenings was spent in a quaint Venetian sidewalk cafe where we indulged in a typical Italian dinner of spaghetti, veal bolognese and ice cream, not a dish for calorie-counters but tasty.

Venice, a city of small shops, narrow streets, built on 118 islets whose inter-connecting canals are the main traffic arteries of its citizens, bids us "Arrividerchi" (Good-bye) as we pack our bags for Milan.

In Milan we are welcomed by the Hotel Cavalieri, with its ultra-modern air-conditioned rooms, excellent foods and hot showers at last! Our three days here were spent visiting such historic places as the beautiful Duomo II Cathedral, a Gothic edifice of more than a hundred pinnacles and thousands of statues, highest of which is one of the Madonna in solid gold.

Next week on to Switzerland.

THE PARTY WEEK END: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

With the season of party weekends almost upon us, my mail of late has been flooded with queries from young inmates of women's colleges wishing to know how one conducts one's self when one has invited a young gentleman for a weekend. This morning, for example, there were more than 30,000 letters, each containing a lock of hair. I gave the hair to a bombsight maker and the lanolin to a dry sheep of my acquaintance, and I turned instantly to the question: How should a young lady deport herself when she has asked a young gentleman to be her guest at a party weekend?

Well, my dear girls, the first thing to remember is that your young gentleman is far from home and frightened. Put him at his ease. You might, for instance, surprise him by having his mother sitting in a rocker on the station platform when he gets off the train.

Next, what kind of corsage should you send your young gentleman? Well, my beloved maidens, orchids are always acceptable.

If you find, my esteemed fillies, that your local florist has run out of stock, do not be dismayed. Make a corsage out of paper. But pick good, stiff, durable paper—twenty dollar bills, for example.

Remember at all times, my fond wenches, to show your young gentleman courtesy and consideration. Open doors for him, walk on the traffic side of the path, assist him to the punch bowl, zip his parka, light his Marlboros. (What, you ask, if he doesn't smoke Marlboros? Ridiculous, my precious nymphs! Of course, he smokes Marlboros! Don't you? Don't I? Doesn't everybody who knows a hawk from a handsaw?? What other cigarette gives you such a lot to like? Such filter? Such flavor? Such flip-top box? No other, my sweet minxes, no other. Marlboro stands alone, and any man worthy of you, my estimable damsels, is bound to be a Marlboro man.)

If you will follow the simple instructions stated above, my good lasses, you will find that you have turned your young gentleman into a fast and fervent admirer. There is nothing quite like a party weekend to promote romance.

I am in mind of a party weekend some years ago at Miss Pomfritt's Seminary for Genteel Chicks in West Linotype, Ohio. Serafina Sigafos, a sophomore at this institution, majoring in napkin folding, sent an invitation to a young man named Fafnir Valve, a junior at the Joyce Kilmer School of Forestry, majoring in sap and boles.

Anyhow, Serafina sent an invitation to Fafnir, and he came, and she showered him with kindness and cuff links, and then he went away, and Serafina sat anxiously by the mailbox, wondering whether she would ever hear from him again. Sure enough, two weeks later she got a letter: "Dear Serafina, Can you let me have fifty bucks? Yours, Fafnir."

Whimpering with ecstasy, she ran to the bank and withdrew the money and mailed it to him. From then on, she got the same request every week, and as a result, she became very well acquainted with Ralph T. Involute, teller of the West Linotype Bank and Trust Co., and their friendship ripened into love, and today they are happily married and live in Stamen, Oregon, where Ralph is in the extruded molasses game and Serafina is a hydrant.

Every weekend is a party weekend when you smoke Marlboros, whose makers bring you this column throughout the school year.

Sodality Resumes Noon Angelus Bells

The Angelus bells, played by Theresa Kelly, will ring out daily at noon over the SU campus, Sodality prefect Noel Brown announced today.

"Those students who can't attend the Angelus, which is recited daily in the chapel, should at least pause and reflect while the bells sound," Brown advised. "Any student may obtain a copy of the Angelus prayers in the Sodality office."

Brown also announced that Confraternity of Christian Doctrine classes will be offered on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 in Room 119 in the LA Building. Anyone who completes this course will receive an official certificate enabling him to teach catechism classes to children and adults.

The CCD for the Blind will hold another talk in their series on the life of Christ in the Chieftain Lounge on Sunday, Nov. 10, at 2 p.m.

Any students wishing to have the souls of relatives and friends remembered in Masses during November may obtain envelopes on a table in front of the chapel doors.

EUROPE VIA SLIDES

Thursday, Nov. 14, at noon, slides of Father Logan's tour of Europe will be featured. They will be shown in the new auditorium with no admission being charged.

Annual Spur Tea Set For Sunday

To acquaint freshman women students with the Spur organization a tea will be given this Sunday in the Chieftain Lounge from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

This tea is also being held to give Spurs an opportunity to meet and become acquainted with other freshman women.

Sheila Delaney and Pat Pavelka are in charge of all arrangements and in the words of co-chairman Pat Pavelka, "The Spur Tea is a wonderful opportunity for all freshman co-eds to meet not only fellow classmates but also Spur members and thus increase their circle of acquaintances here at Seattle U."

On hand to give a special greeting to the frosh will be Spur officers Joan Petri, Sandy West, Carol Casey, Fran Abrams, Fran Skeate and Fran Farrell, as well as the remaining 26 members of this sophomore women's service honorary.

Next Vet's Dance "A Swingin' Affair"

"A Swingin' Affair," title of the next Vets' Club dance, is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 9, from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. The dance is at the Senator Ballroom, in Eagles' Auditorium at Seventh and Union Street.

Gene Aitken's band will provide the music. He is also playing for the AWSU "Pumpkin Pow-Wow" on Friday night.

Admission to the dance is $2.50 per couple and the dress is semi-formal. Frank DeMartino, in charge of the dance, stated that refreshments will be served free of charge.

Arrangements have been made to allow 2 a.m. leave for co-eds living in the dorms.

Assisting Frank with the arrangements is Tom O'Neil. Publicity is under the direction of Don Willis. Rico Parenti and John Gizzo are handling refreshments. Mike Williams is handling the arrangements for door prizes which will be offered during the course of the evening.

Newly elected officers heading the Vets' Club include Gil Martin, president; Don Willis, vice president; Darlene Russell, secretary; Tom O'Neil, treasurer; and Frank DeMartino, sergeant-at-arms.

Sadie Hawkins Tolo Slated Nov. 5

Head for the hills, men!

Co-eds are on their yearly prow for escorts to SU's traditional Sadie Hawkins Tolo. The annual turn-about, sponsored by Silver Scroll, will be held in the Spanish Ballroom of the Olympic Hotel on Friday, Nov. 15, from 9 to 12 p.m.

Burke Garrett's band, featured at several past UW dances, will provide music for the tolo. Dress is semi-formal — suits for men, cocktail dresses for women.

Lynn O'Neill heads the dance committee composed of six Silver Scroll pledges. Joan Parker and Shirley Anderson are co-chairmen of decorations, while Sue Hohl and Rosemary Hebner take care of publicity arrangements.

According to Celine Hulbert, program chairman, tickets will go on sale the latter part of next week at booths in the LA Building and the Chieftain, and probably also in Marycrest. Programs are priced at $2.75 per couple.

During intermission at the dance, new Silver Scroll pledges will be presented by Helen Hoolahan, president of the women's upper division honorary.

Asked about plans for the tolo, Lynn O'Neill enthused: "We're going to do our best to make this year's dance its traditional success and guarantee everyone a wonderful time!"

the Nooners. Two victories in the past week have lifted them from fifth place to second. They defeated the Tampicos, 6-0, last Thursday and followed up with a 13-7 conquest of the Dirty Shirts on Tuesday.

The previous Tuesday saw the ROTC team add another win to their record by downing the Dirty Shirts, 6-0.

As they exist now, the league standings are far from conclusive. This is due to the fact that some teams have played one or even two games more than others. The Syndicates have only two games remaining to play and, unless they lose them both, are cinched for at least a tie for the championship.

On the other hand, one Syndicate defeat would give either the Nooners, RO's or Tampicos the needed break to grab a first place tie. However, this week's games will eliminate at least one of these contenders. The Syndicates will continue to hold the lead, since they have no game this week.

The schedule until next Thursday is:

| Nov. | Team | Time (p.m.) |
|------|------------------------------|-------------|
| 7 | ROTC vs. Tampicos | 1 |
| 8 | Nooners vs. Banditos | 1 |
| 12 | Dirty Shirts vs. Leprechauns | 1 |

LEAGUE STANDINGS

| Team | Won | Lost |
|--------------|-----|------|
| Syndicates | 4 | 0 |
| Nooners | 3 | 1 |
| ROTC | 2 | 1 |
| Tampicos | 1 | 1 |
| Dirty Shirts | 1 | 2 |
| Leprechauns | 0 | 3 |
| Banditos | 0 | 3 |

Portland U Cagers Ready For Season

According to almost all basketball fans (except a few die-hard Gonzaga rooters), the top battler for Seattle U's top Pacific Coast independent spot will be Portland University. The Pilots have eight returning lettermen from last year's squad, which compiled a strong 18-12 record.

Coach Al Negratti is strongest at his guard positions. Two lads from Chicago man the posts — juniors Wally Panel and Jim Armstrong. Panel, a lithe 5 ft. 11 in., was the Pilots' leading scorer last year. Also, as if Negratti wasn't already satisfied, another capable performer at guard is Dick Jolley, another junior.

With last year's center, Bill Zapp, not in action this year, responsibility for manning the all-important pivot spot rests on 6-ft. 8-in. John Westermann. If Westermann can rebound enough to keep the hot-shooting guards in possession of the ball, Portland should cause trouble.

The Pilot freshman turnout includes such stars as Ray Scott, 6-8, Pennsylvania all-stater; Jim Attenhofen, 6-5, high school All-America from Central Catholic in Portland; and Jack Vukasin, 6-0 guard, also a high school All-America, from Central Catholic in Billings, Mont.

Portland and Seattle U play four games on a home-and-home basis. The Chieftains captured all four last year and the Pilots seek revenge.

"My job is to keep the boys in top physical, mental and spiritual condition." These are the words of Claude Norris, Seattle U basketball trainer.

Claude, a well-known figure in Seattle sport circles, is truly the unsung hero of the Seattle U basketball program. His job as trainer carries with it a great deal of responsibility. He must play mother and nursemaid to the team and keep them in top physical condition at home as well as on the road.

As any of the players will tell you, Claude is a real likeable guy. He's always around and ever willing to give the players a word of advice or listen to their problems.

Claude was quite an athlete in his own day. He attended Broadway High School in Seattle, where he gained All-City recognition in football, basketball and baseball. After graduation he enrolled at Whitman College in Walla Walla, and during his freshman year he was nominated for All-America football honors.

Claude came to Seattle U in 1946, where he worked under former Chief coach Al Brightman. Since that time he has seen many SU stars come and go. Such greats as Johnny and Eddie O'Brien, the Sanford brothers and Dick Stricklin. This will be Claude's twelfth year as varsity trainer and what a truly remarkable job he has done. Head Coach John Castellani can truly be thankful for having such a capable trainer on his staff.

Sometime during the coming basketball season, take a glance over at the SU bench and perhaps you'll see Claude Norris with a first-aid kit on one side and a sack of oranges and sugar cubes on the other.

Writer Claims Little Local Cage Talent Due To Poor High School Competition

By FRANK PIRO

Seattle's champion express moved into high gear this week, preparing for its December 3 clash with Buchan. The main activity centered around full-court scrimmages, with Elgin Baylor and "Sweet" Charlie Brown naturally looking like the best around.

When Seattle grabbed Don Ogorek and Don Piasecki from Indiana, it acquired experienced personnel. Ogorek averaged 18 points for South Bend's Washington High. Piasecki scored about 15 per night at a rival school. Both played against topflight outfits.

"Sweet" Charlie Brown and Jude Petrie came from Illinois, Archie Dees from Indiana U and Jim Armstrong and Wally Panel from Portland U.

Elgin Baylor, Seattle U's great center-forward, is the first sophomore in Pacific Northwest history to be named to a number of All-America basketball teams.

Baylor, playing for Spingarn High in Washington, D.C., rattled about 36 points through the hoop every night out. He finished the season with All-America prep recognition. Francis Saunders and Lloyd Murphy, Baylor's high school teammates, played against Charlie Jenkins, John Jones and other D.C. stars. The experience paid off.

Thornton Humphries tallied over 22 per game in Florida, the state that produced the immortal Joe "Fire" MacDonald and others. Bob Siewarga averaged 15 against New Jersey opposition.

Jim Harney (16 ppg at Seattle Prep) and Jerry Frizzel (20 ppg at Montesano) have proved themselves in college competition. John Kootnekoff (18 ppg in Canadian ball) has yet to play a varsity game.

Not all the above mentioned are

A-1 cage stars but the fact that many come from other states only shows that Washington doesn't have enough talent to go around.

Hanses Rolls Season High; Splits Take League Lead

By CHUCK SCHMITZ

Seattle U's bowling league underwent quite a reshuffling last Thursday at the Rainier Lanes. The Splits, who shared the lead a week ago with the Bums and Tigers, are now alone in first place. The Bums dropped into second position and the Tigers slipped 'way down into sixth place.

| Top Teams | Won | Lost |
|-----------------|-----|------|
| 1. Splits | 7 | 1 |
| 2. Bums | 9 | 3 |
| 3. Holy Rollers | 8 | 4 |
| 4. Giants | 7 | 5 |
| 5. Six | 7 | 5 |

| Top Individ. Bowlers | Avg. |
|----------------------|------|
| 1. Jim Dohanson | 172 |
| 2. Bill Neri | 170 |

|-----------------------|-----|
| 3. Ed Linek | 167 |
| 4. Fr. Logan | 166 |
| 5. Fr. Rebhahn | 164 |
| 6. John Broell | 163 |
| 7. Grace Orchard | 128 |
| 8. Patsy Gallagher | 125 |
| 9. Pat Scherre | 118 |
| 10. Betty K. Marshall | 115 |

Mark Hanses rolled a "hot" 237 last Thursday and this gives him the high individual game honors. Rev. F. Logan, S.J., with 222 and Gary Harris' 217 are the next highest.

Hanses also grabbed off high individual series honors with his 562 three-game total.

New "Who's Who" Published By IK's

The 1957-1958 edition of the Seattle University "Who's Who" went on sale this week. The 35¢ booklet, sponsored by the Intercollegiate Knights, is an annual publication containing names, addresses and phone numbers of all registered students and faculty members.

Editions may be obtained from any IK, or in the LA Building and Chieftain from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. After November 26, copies may only be obtained in the bookstore.

Bill Scalzo, editor-in-chief, handled the arrangements for this edition. Home addresses for out-of-town students have been included this year as an added feature.

Cover artist for this year's publication was Lee Rose Vitalich. Co-eds who helped type "Who's Who" are Joan Anderson, Mariella Atwood, Doris Cefka, Joan Chatman, Dolores Cruz, Esther De Pillo, Gay Gallivan, Loretta Hebert, Barbara Kemp, Adrienne Kernan, Mary McNulty, Colleen Meechan, Judie Nickerson, Diane Norton, Kathie Silvani, Marilyn Smith, Judy Webb and Teeny Worthington. Also assisting the editor were Bob Krull and Mrs. Marie Kline.

Moderators of the Wigwag Chapter of IK's are Rev. Robert Rebhahn, S.J., and Rev. William Gill, S.J.

WAC's Present College Program

Women students interested in work opportunities as officers of the Women's Army Corps will be able to talk with Captain Mildred G. Qualls from Headquarters, Sixth U.S. Army, Presidio of San Francisco, on November 13. She will be in the Student Union Building Conference Room from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Women's Corps is now offering direct commissions as second and first lieutenants to college graduates between the ages of 20 and 33 who have the mental, physical and moral qualifications required of officers in the Corps.

A newly instituted program is directed toward college juniors, who now can become acquainted with military life during the summer by spending a month with pay at the WAC Center.

Capt. Qualls states that WAC officers are now serving at home and abroad in over ten different career fields, each one of which calls for an infinite variety of special assignments.

Women wishing to inform themselves about opportunities in the military establishment available to them upon graduation are invited to talk with Capt. Qualls.

First Free Dancing Lessons Offered Students Nov. 12

A new student participation program is being initiated at Seattle U in the form of dancing instructions.

Kathleen Rotchford and her committee, including John Vhay, Santos Contreras, Harry Plut, Dick Green, Helen Eckhoff, Linda Mandich and Patty Crenna, will direct interested students in such dances as the Fox Trot, Swing, Rhumba, Samba and Tango. The instructions include basic steps and some variations of all.

The first class is scheduled for November 12 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., in the Chieftain Lounge. A definite date and time for the weekly sessions is tentative.

There is no cost or obligation attached to the lessons. Everyone is invited to come and see what will be happening and to offer suggestions for the course.

If anyone feels he or she is already a good dancer, please come to help instruct, if possible. Anyone who is qualified to be on the committee contact Kathy Rotchford, MAIn 3736.

Also if enough persons in the evening division are interested, a course will be offered for them.

"I'm in a business nobody dreamed of three years ago"

"In a company that develops new ideas by the thousands," says 30-year-old William K. Cordier, manager of General Electric's Man-Made Diamond pilot plant, "a young man's career progress need not be limited by his particular field. In my five years with General Electric, I've gained valuable experience in several different fields, and each assignment has helped me to move ahead. Right now, I have an exciting job. I run the world's first diamond-making plant — a business nobody dreamed of three years ago."

Diamond Making a Reality

The job Bill Cordier holds is an important one, created because General Electric has the scientific and technical resources needed to seek out new knowledge and swiftly translate it into products that people want and need. In 1955, the company announced a major scientific breakthrough — the production of real diamonds in the laboratory. Today, little more than two years later, General Electric is making and selling quantities of these diamonds for civilian and defense use.

Achieving Three-Way Progress

General Electric's ability to take on and solve big problems — in research and development as well as every phase of production — is constantly creating challenging new opportunities for the 29,000 college graduates at the company. As we see it, by providing a healthy climate for a young man's self-development in whatever area he may choose, we encourage not only his own progress, but that of the company and the nation as well.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

WILLIAM K. CORDIER received his B.S. in Mechanical Engineering from Purdue University (1949). He joined General Electric's Metallurgical Products Department in 1952.
